Prince Michael and His Band of Angels and Long-Haired Men Almost Mobbed. Exciting Scenes in the Streets of Detroit and in the Corridors of the Court-House-The Queer Sect of the House of Israel.

DETROIT, March 3.—This morning the return of the writ of habeas corpus against "Prince" Michael and his "affinity lovers," issued at the instance of Joseph T. Richardson, was made before Judge Brevoort. Michael, with his long hair, and Mrs. Richardson, the respondent, were present. The room was packed with people, and among the crowd were a dozen of the ngliest "angels" one ever hoped to see The case was adjourned till 3 o'clock.

When the "Prince" and his followers started out of the court-room and got in the corridor the crowd swooped down on them and almost carried them bodily out raised. "Throw them in the river," "Give the 'Prince' a cold bath," and other such cries went up. The crowd chased the gang around the streets for half an hour. When the hooting crowd reached Congress street a man was seen running in the middle of the road with a gun in his hand and a dog ened to shoot the "Prince." The fanatics went into the office of their lawyers and the crowd massed in front of it and kept up its hooting for a considerable time. The court-room at the continuance of the hapeas corpus case this afternoon presented an interesting scene. The room was just comfortably filled with "angels," long-haired men and inquisitive men and women. Judge Brevoort's orders were to admit no one to the court-room but privileged persons. Just before the gavel sounded on the judge's desk a deputy sheriff came in and nailed the side door shut with a spike. It is impossible to convey to paper anything like an adequate idea of the corridor scenes. The mob held mock "House of Israel" Rome Lowl generally. When the disciples of the flying roll arrived they were surrounded by a dozen or more deputy sheriffs and hustled by the skirts of the mob and into the court by a rear door. Testimony was given as to Mrs. Richardson's physical and mental condition. Mrs. Richardson was then put on the stand and related her marital woes. When court adjourned she was still in the witness-box.

The lower floor of the City Hall, and especially around the elevators and the stairways, were jammed with men, eagerly awaiting the departure of the long-haired people. A strong guard of deputy sheriffs was secured after adjournment of court, and, after the corridors had been cleared, the "Israelites" were led out towards the rush down-stairs. When the elevator began sliding down an unearthly yell went up from the restless mob, which had been largely increased from the outside ever since court had adjourned. Assistance was secured and a passage made, through which the disciples passed, followed by an ex-

The crowd yelled "hang them," "kill them," "throw 'em in the river." "get a rope." They yelled themselves hoarse, but made no attempt to harm the people. Once upon the street they were quickly marched up Griswold street, followed by the rapidly increasing mob, yelling and shouting, and put upon street cars, after which the crowd dispersed. Several persons arrived in town to-day who will bring habeas corpus proceedings against the sect to regain possession of friends and relatives.

Stallion Earl Brings $5,100 at the Cleveland Sale-Hoosiers Again Buyers.

CLEVELAND, O., March 8,-It took all day to discuss the Shady Side farm consignment at the big sale in the famous Glenville mart. There were plenty of opportunities to get road horses cheap, and buyers availed themselves eagerly of the chance. Mr. Sharpe's animals are not exactly scattered to the winds of heaven, enough to have passed out of his control. for quite a number of them go back to the blue-grass State, while just across the river. at Evansville, Ind., a representative dele-gation will sniff Hoosier air. In round numbers Mr. Sharpe will realize something like $75,000 on the product of his farm. Among the star animals sold was the stallion Earl and a couple of fairly-good Electioneer brood mares. Seventy-seven horses were sold in all for $36,790, an average of $477.50 per head. To-morrow there will be some of the stars of the sale for buyers to take a chance at, including the Flood consignment, which embraces a couple of very fast racing horses. The sales for $1,500 and upwards were: Earl, ch. c., foaled 1890, by B. Princess, to Benjamin Johnson, Bardstown, Ky., $5,100; Gypsy Earl, c. f., foaled 1890, by Earl, to Geo. Whatever doubt, if any, that might have een still lingering in the minds of people here or elsewhere concerning the support which Indiana Republicans will give President Harrison in the Minneapolis convention was definitely and conclusively at rest yesterday by the action of the several district conventions throughout the State. It was not a question whether or not delegates friendly to the President should be chosen. As was well known by those who had been able to gauge the Republican State pulse, that question long since ceased to bother the friends of General Harrison. A perusal of the complete telegraph and local reports of the different conventions will show that the effort of the delegates in the several districts seemed to be to express their loyalty to the President in the most flattering language possible. The reports of our correspondents show that every mention of his name precipitated a veritable storm of applause, and this repeatedly. The delegates, upon election, stood up and proudly declared their determination to vote first, last and all the time for the renomination of General Harriof the City Hall. Shouts of derision were | son. Enthusiasm is constantly referred to as being literally unbounded, and of the wildest sort imaginable. Only in one district, the Twelfth, was there a single jar. Here the Fort Wayne delegation, favoring an anti-Harrison man, was completely voted down, and both Minneapolis delegates chosen are recorded as for Harrison. It is a cause of general congratulation that nowhere appears a conflict that will jeopard Republican chances in November.

FIRST DISTRICT.

Delegates Instructed to Vote for President Harrison's Renomination.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. EVANSVILLE, Ind., March 3.-The Republican district convention to nominate delegates to Minneapolis met here to-day. Every delegation was complete. The hall where the convention was held was overflowing and the enthusiasm was unbounded. Before the convention met there was a great amount of log-rolling, but it was all without feeling. Hon. Robert Mitchell was chosen chairman and W. W. Ross secretary. There was no speech-making other than the nominating speeches, which were in themselves very brief. The convention was bardly under way until nominations were called for, which had hardly begun until the order was changed and a committee on resolutions was appointed, consisting of Gil. R. Stormont of Gibson, Eugene F. Cummings of Perry. Charles Krebs bruler of Spencer, John Osborn of Vanderburg and W. W. Wilson of Warrick. When the committee retired nominations were again called for and the following were brought out: George P. Heilman, of Vanderburg; Cicero Buchanan, of Vanderburg; Frederick P. Leonard of Posey and William Henning of Perry. Mr. Heilman was first elected by a majority of one vote. The second ballot resulted in the selection of Mr. Leonard, of Posey. Mr. Heilman is the eldest son of the late William Heilman, and is a young man promi-nent in business circles in Evansville. He has never given much attention to politics. but has entered the race with much spirit and has been aided by his friends. Mr. Leonard, who is a resident of Mt. Vernon, the capital of Posey, is a young Republican of much prominence in the district and is well known throughout the district.

The selection of alternates was made more quickly. Gibson county nominated Dr. Adams, of Pike; Perry nominated Clarence P. Laird, of Spencer, and Vander-burgh, nominated William Henning, of Perry. There was but one ballot, resulting in the selection of Messrs. Adams and Laird. The nominees all then pledged themselves to Harrison, Mr. Leonard making an eloquent and impassioned speech. Theresolutions declare that the Republican party and the Republican Congress kept faith with the people in carrying out the pledges of the platform adopted at Chicago 1888. They reaffirm the principles of the party as set out in the national and State platforms and declare that the McKinley law has been a success in that it had increased manutacturing and gives more people work at increased wages. They denounce as odious the unjust assessment and State tax laws. and the partisan legislation disfranchising Republican voters. President Harrison and his administration are complimented as patriotic and enterprising. The delegates were instructed to vote for the renomination of President Harrison. resolution was passed instructing delegates from the First district to vote and work for James H. McNeely for delegate from the State at large in the State convention.

SECOND DISTRICT.

Most Flattering Resolutions Possible for the Conduct of President Harrison.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. WASHINGTON, Ind., March 3 .- One of the largest conventions ever held in the Second district met here to-day. Hon. Benjamin Willoughby, of Vincennes, presided. Dr. Howard R. Lowder, of Greene county. and Colonel Edward F. Meredith, of Daviess, were elected delegates to the national Republican convention. Dr. W. H. McMahan, of Dubois, and H. Q. Houghton, of Shoals, were elected as alternates. The greatest of enthusiasm was manifested when the following resolutions were presented: The Republicans of the Second congressional district of Indiana, always proud of Benjamin Harrison-citizen, soldier and statesman-having

Mr. Overstreet congratulated great principles and labor of reciprocal trade and honest money and protection to American citizens at home and abroad—principles of which he is the mighty exponent. Therefore be it

Resolved, That the delegates and alternates elected as representatives of this district to the Republican national convention at Minneapolis are hereby instructed to work and vote for Ben-jamin Harrison until he is renominated for Pres-ident of the United States.

Ringing speeches were made by the pational delegates and alternates and Col. A.
M. Hardy, of Daviess, and Hon. Gurley
Brewer, the silver-tongued colored orator of Vincennes.

THIRD DISTRICT.

Seymour's Republican Club Gives the Convention a Hearty Welcome.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. SEYMOUR, Ind., March 3 .- Delegates to the Third district convention began to arrive here yesterday from Floyd, Jefferson and Jennings counties, and a grand reception was tendered the visitors last night by the Seymour Republican Club. The delegates from the sister counties were greatly gratified and pleased what they saw and heard in Seymour. The evidences of life, spirit and enthusiasm evinced by the early organization of a Republican club here elicited especial comment. The other counties should imitate Jackson and establish headquarters, organize and go to work at once. Never was a more earnest and enthusiastic body of Republicans assembled in southern Indiana than that of the Third district convention to-day. The large audience-room was literally packed, many prominent women being there to grace the meeting. At 1:30 P. M. Chairman S. E. Carter called the convention to order and announced that the business of the day was the order and made a brief opening address full of vim and vigor. J. A. Kemp, reported that all the counties were represented but Harrison and that there were no contests. Frank F. Dean, of Clark county, selected permanent chairman. He made a true blue Harrison speech, and the cheers made the hall ring. Dr. V. H. Monree was elected secretary, and Charles B. Maloy, of Clark, and Owen Scarff, of Jef- | it was determined to throw a tremendous ferson, assistant secretaries. The following were then nominated: O. H. Montgomery named Gen. Jasper Packard, of Floyd; Markus R. Sulzer, in a ringing speech, named James Graham, of Jefferson. Frank P. Little, of Jennings, moved that the nominations be made by acclamation, which was carried, and he was indorsed as elector from the Third district. Lee W. Sinclair was indorsed as a candidate for State Treasurer. J. W. Martin, of Scott, and Cadwallader

Jones, of Clark, were made alternates. The following resolutions were adopted with the wildest enthusiasm: Resolved, That we reaffirm the statement of rinciples of the Republican national platform Resolved, That we deplore the death of the late Governor of Indiana, the gallant General Hovey, and we regard it most fortunate. in the face of this great loss to the State, that a man of

That we are more than ever proud of our present brilliant Republican administra-tion and our illustrious Indiana President, wise in council, firm and prompt in action, true to Republican principles because they are right. He has wen this recognition and this convention directs the delegates this day selected to give him their energetic support in the national convention at Minneapolis. Thus

General Packard was called to the rostrum and delivered one of his enthusiastic speeches and was handsomely applauded. Following this James Graham, the other delegate, came forth in response to calls and spoke briefly, both pledging most earnest support to President Harrison. The convention, amid tumultuous applause, extended a vote of thanks to the Republicans of Seymour for the kind and courteous treatment received at their hands while in the city.

FOURTH DISTRICT.

Harrison and Captain Jones Were the Two

Big Men at Greensburg Yesterday. Epecial to the Indianapolis Journal. GREENSBURG, Ind., March 3.-The most enthusiastic Republican convention that, perhaps, ever met in the Fourth congressional district, assembled at the Grand Opera-house to-day, to select delegates to the Minneapolis convention. The band of this city escorted the delegates from the trains to the hall, which was crowded with active Republicans. On motion, Judge W. A. Moore, of this county, was chosen of Pike, L. J. Larkin of Posey, Ellis De- chairman and the editors of the several Republican papers were made secretaries. In taking the chair Judge Moore made a neat and effective speech. After a vicepresident from each county and the committee, consisting of one from each county, on resolutions were selected the convention proceeded at once to business and selected Claude Camburn, of Rushville, and George M. Roberts, of Lawrenceburg, delegates. W. D. Daily, of Ripley county, and E. S. Powell, of Shelby county, were named as alternates. All are enthusiastic supporters of President Harrison for renomination. The following resolutions were submitted and adopted unanimously: Whereas, Benjamin Harrison has, by his private and public life, invited and won the respect and confidence of the American people irrespective of party, and Whereas, In his present administration as President of the United States, he has commend-ed himself to all as a man of brave and comprehensive views, whose aim and determination is to do right and administer the affairs of our government in the interest of the people, and Whereas, Under his wise and patriotic administration the honor of America has been upheld and respected at home and abroad, and new and valuable markets have been opened for our farm and manufactured products, therefore be it Resolved, That Benjamin Harrison be renominated by the Minneapolis convention, and that the delegates this day selected from this district are here hereby instructed to vote and Resolved. That the present efficient Judge of the Supreme Court by appointment, the Hon. ly indersed and recommended by this convention for the nomination for judge of the Supreme

At 2 o'clock the congressional convention met at the same place to nominate a candidate for Congress. Never in the history of a convention was the Jones family in so great demand. William H. Jones, of Franklin county, was placed in nomination for chairman, which was followed by the nomination of his brother Charles, of the same county, who declined. Another delegate nominated Capt. Sam Jones, of Ripley county, but the Franklin county Jones won, Captain Jones being made secretary, A motion was then made by Sid Conger to postpone the nomination of a candidate for Congress, which was opposed by Captain Jones in a vigorous speech, and in that speech he criticised Judge Holman, which criticism was greatly enjoyed by every-body. When he took his seat the cry went up as one voice for Jones for Congress. A rising vote was taken, accordingly, and he was nominated with great enthusiasm. Captain Jones served in two wars, is a man of great personal magnetism, and a first-class orator. As a stump-speaker he has few equals in the State. He will make a red-hot canvass.

At the judicial convention, David A Myers was renominated by acclamation for prosecuting attorney for the counties of Rush and Decatur.

of Franklin. Mr. Overstreet congratulated the delegates upon the heaithy condition of the party, the exceedingly bright outlook, and said that the harmony in the ranks was only exceeded by the individual enthusiasm. Without further preliminaries the convention was declared ready for business, and the selection of a permanent chairman was declared to be in order.

Mr. Wilson, of Morgan, presented the name of Capt. David Beem, of Owen, for permanent presiding officer and there being no other candidate Captain Beem was elected by acclamation.

Captain Beem, in assuming the gavel, said in substance:

"Gentlemen, I feel it a great honor to be called upon to preside over a meeting like this, and you will accept my heartful thanks for the distinction conferred. I recognize that we are here for business and not for speech-making, but I cannot refrain from congratulating you and the whole country upon the favorable prospects before us, at this, the beginning of another presidential campaign. But gentlemen, a great responsibility devolves upon the Republican party this year. It will be necessary for us not only to look after the interests of the party and manage the affairs of the country, but we will have to take charge of the Democratic party, as well, for recent events in New York have demonstrated that that party is utterly inthanks for the distinction conferred. demonstrated that that party is utterly in-capable of taking care of itself. [Laughter and applause.] The Republican party is entirely equal to the emergency.

"The past history of the Republican party is secure. Its record has placed it upon an impregnable basis, and the achievements of the administration of President Harrison have placed the party in position to ask a continued lease of power. "Two years ago, and up to one year ago, the opposition was making its assaults upon the McKinley bill. They denounced it at every point as the most infamous piece of legislation ever placed upon the statute-books, but recently in caucus they admit that it is impossible to destroy it as Gettysburg. Having, in two days' nght ing, failed to shake the position of the federal forces, he called a conneil or war, and force against what was considered the weakest point. The flag was placed in the hands of the intrepid Pickett, and the charge on Cemetery Hill and the repulse by Hancock are matters of history. In this fight Democracy has placed its standard in the hands of Springer, and is looking for a weak point to attack. "I do not claim," said the speaker, "that my tongue is touched by prophetic fire, but as the banner of the Confederacy went down before the legions of the North at Gettysburg, just so sure will the hordes of Democracy meet with rout and confusion in their assaults upon the McKinley bill. [Tremendous applause.] But we are here to-day for a purpose. In making a selection of delegates from the names to be presented here to-day we can make no mistakes. After selecting them we can safely rely that the flag will be placed over the head of the gallant soldier, the matchless leader, the peerless President, and under him we will again march to victory." [Applause]. On motion, Robert A. Brown, of the Franklin Republican, was elected secretary, and the Republican editors present assistant secretaries. On motion the chairman appointed a committee on resolutions, as follows: Bartholomew, J. C. Orr; Brown, A. W. Gray; Hendricks, E. G. Hogate; Johnson, E. C. Vannuys; Monroe, P. K. Buskirk; Morgan, David Wilson; Owen, J. F. Lawson; Putnam, T. T. Moore. The committee retired, and in a short time reported the fol-

The resolution was unanimously adopted The chairman then declared the nomination of candidates to be in order.

NOMINATING DELEGETES. Enoch G. Hogate presented the name of Major Joseph B. Homan, of Hendricks county. Mr. Rogers presented the name of Nat W. Hill, of Monroe county. Col. James H. Jordan's name was presented by Judge George W. Grubbs, of Morgan coun-ty. Major Dunbar nominated Senator Silas A. Hays, of Putnam.

The presentation speeches fairly flashed and sparkled with rhetorical pyrotechnics and the claims of each candidate were set forth in the strongest possible light. The first ballot resulted: Hays, 28; Homan, 55; Hill, 28; Jordan, 89. Second ballot: Hays, 3112; Homan, 861

Hill, 2; Jordan, 30. Major Homan having received a majority all the votes cast was declared duly elected. The announcement of the result was greeted with loud applause. in acknowledging the honor conferred He was aware, he said, that the people of the Fifth district wanted no one to represent them who was not earnestly and enthusiastically for Harrison. This wish of the people, he said, was entirely in line with his own sentiments, and he pledged his earnest and loyal support to the renomination of General Harrison. The conven-tion then proceeded to ballot for the second delegate. The tide was in the direc-tion of Hill, and when Putnam county was reached it was seen that Mr. Hill had 75 votes, just one short of a nomination There was a hurried consultation among the Putnam county delegation, and then the vote was announced 11 for Hill and 10 for Jordan. This elected Mr. Hill, the vote standing, Hill, 86; Jordan, 64. Hill was accorded an ovation, and upon motion of Senator Hays his election was In expressing his thanks, Mr. Hill said that as he listened to the nominating speeches he had come to the conclusion that the Republican party was not under obligations to any man, for the reason that if they were Republicans they were Republicans from principle. As for himself he was willing to work wherever the party put him, and whatever his position he would give the party whatever of ability. energy and vital force he possessed. Con-tinuing, Mr. Hill said: "I hereby pledge myself to carry out the principles and wishes of this convention as expressed in the resolution adopted to-day. But something more must be done than to renominate General Harrison. This is close State. The enemy is vigilant, active and sleepless. Her voice is the voice of the siren, but her arts and devices are those of the devil." Referring to Indianapolis, the speaker said that from the events of the past two weeks there was reason to hope that the Republicans might accomplish something here. He hoped some plan might be devised whereby the party might be placed in the hands of a receiver and kept there until shorn of its tendency and faculty for evil doing. ALTERNATES ELECTED.

The convention then proceeded to elect two alternate delegates. A resolution was made that the two defeated candidates be chosen alternates by acclamation. Judge Jordan declined the honor, and the name of Henry S. Rominger was substituted for his. The motion, as amended was passed. and Senator Hays was declared elected as alternate for Major Homan and Mr. Rominger as alternate for Mr. Hill. Governor Chase, who had made his ap-pearance, was called out to make a few remarks. He said he was glad we had never had but two Presidents who had not endangered their lives in battle for the flag. He congratulated the convention on its earnestness and enthusiasm, and predicted the renomination and re-election of President Harrison. A few words the Governor addressed the delegates relative to their own district affairs. He said it was a brutal outrage that the Fifth district should he represented in Congress by a man who had no higher idea of his duty than to be hounding continually at the heels of Pension Commissioner Raum, whom he declared to be an honest man and the best

Commissioner of Pensions for the soldiers that had ever occupied the office. Raum was baring his breast to rebel bullets while Cooper was a kidling, and he exhorted the Fifth district Republicans to nominate for Congress a man who could meet this Cooper face to face and hurl him back into that obscurity where he belonged. "We'll do it," was the answer that greeted the Governor's advice, and the convention adjourned. A Journal reporter saw Messrs. Homan and Hill after the convention. Each declared himself a Harrison man first, last and all the time, and both pledged their best efforts and energies to secure his renomination.

SIXTH DISTRICT.

The "Old Burnt District" Comes to the Front for President Harrison. Special to the Indianapoits Journal.

NEW CASTLE, Ind., March 3 .- The district convention was held here to-day to select delegates and alternates to the national Republican convention from the Sixth congressional district. It was a regular old camp-meeting of the Republicans of the "Old Burnt District," for, by the great kindness of the late lamented and notoriously Democratic Legislature, Union county once more met with her neighbors of the antislavery days. Taken all in all, it was a sort of family reunion. District Chairman Frank Ellis, of Muncie, cailed the convention to order at 2:15 P. M., and Rev. William C. Bowen offered prayer. Hon. Charles E. Shiveley, of Richmond, was chosen permanent chairman, and C. S. Hernly, of this city, secretary. On the call of the counties for nominations for delegates, Hon. F. T. Roots, of Connersville; Hon. I. P. Mitchell, of this city; Hon. Charles W. Stivers, of Liberty, and Rev. Isaiah P. Watts, of Winchester, were placed in nomination. A most amusing incident occurred when Dr. J. E. Markle arose to place in nomination Mr. Watts. The Doctor, in most eloquent and earnest words, depicted The speaker likened the Democratic as- the worth and fitness of his cansault on the tariff to the tactics of Lee at | didate, and, after completing his able oratorical effort, sat down without naming his man. Immediately the convention was in an uproprious fit of mirth, and it was several minutes before the chairman could restore order sufficiently to proceed with the business. But one delegate was selected at a time, and eleven ballots were necessary before the second one secured a majority of the votes. Messrs. Stivers and Watts were finally elected, and the other two were made alternates. All are warm friends of the President The contest in the selection of delegates was not between the supporters and opposers of the President, but among his friends, for there was but one sentiment in the con vention on the subject of his renomination, and that was emphatically in favor of it. In fact, the mere mention of his name was quite sufficient to provoke the most enthusiastic applause. The following resolutions were adopted unanimously: The events of nearly four years have fully verified the claims and predictions made by the representatives of Indiana, in urging the nomination of Benjamin Harrison at the last Republican national convention. He has proven to be a strong, available and successful candidate. His utterances during the campaign and since have given strength and encouragement to his party, and have won the admiration and respect of the entire country. He has fulfilled every pledge, and has met every just expectation of the party and of the country. His administration has been free from reproach, and has been char-acterized throughout by distinguished ability and success in dealing with the numerous important questions of home and foreign policy which have arisen. The Republicans of the Sixth district, in common with their brethren throughout the State, take pride in the achievements and fame of our President, and believe that they justly entitle him to the in dersement of a unanimous renomination, to be followed by a triumphant re-election. Therefore,

Resolved. That the delegates this day chosen be instructed to vote, first, last and all the time, for the renomination of Benjamin Harrison at the Minneapolis convention. Resolved. That temperance and sobriety are necessary to good citizenship and good govern-ment, and that we will favor such legislation as will at all times have a tendency to promote the Whereas, The perpetuity of a republican government depends upon the freedom and equality of its people, and until the fundamental rights of all are established in every portion of the Republic, all other questions are of secondary importance; therefore, be it Resolved. That we recognize as the paramount issue in the coming campaign the ques-tion of free and fair elections. We not only affirm the right of every citizen in every State of the Union to cast his ballot, free alike from the temptations of bribery and the threats of the bulldozer, and without fear of present violence or future proscription, but we declare it to be the constitutional duty of Congress to guarantee this sacred right at all congressional elections, and in all parts of the Republic. Watts Is Honored at Home, Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

WINCHESTER, Ind., March 8 .- Republicans of this city are greatly pleased over the selection by the New Castle convention of the Hon, I. P. Watts, of this city, as a delegate to the national convention. Mr. Watts is an administration Republican, and an active worker in both local and national politics. He believes that history never has witnessed any such wonderful, far-reaching and beneficent achievements as were wrought out by the Fifty-first Congress, and that time alone

Resolutions for Harrison. Anyone who attended the Seventh district convention in the Criminal Court room, yesterday afternoon, would have no doubt of the great fight that will be made for supremacy on the part of the Republican party this year. The utmost good feeling and enthusiasm prevailed among the delegates, and not a thing occurred to mar the proceedings of the convention.

The delegates began to gather in the make an explanation in relation to it. Realizing the fact that it would be my legal court-room as early as 1 o'clock, but it was duty upon the decision of the question of about 2:10 when District Committeeman J. the charges of contempt in this sase to W. Hess called the convention to order. For some time it had been conceded that Hon. W. T. Durbin, of Anderson, would be elected, probably by acclamation, but from

There are three counties composing the Seventh district-Marion, with 149 delegates; Hancock, with nineteen, and Madison, with thirty-five, in all 201. After the convention had been called to order committeeman Hess announced that the roll would be called by wards, townships and counties. J. W. Fesler, of this city, called the roll, and all responded except Center southwest and Pike township. About the time the roll was concluded Benno Mitchell, from the Marion county delegation, in the rear of the court-room, created a little diversion by calling for more chairs. WILL CARS RUN TO-MORROW?

Street-Railroad Situation Again Takes on a Critical Complexion.

General Belief that the Property Will To-Day Revert to the Company, with Mr. Frenzel in Full Sway.

Neither Side Cares to Divulge Its Policy in that Contingency.

Brotherhood Meeting-Men Surrender Their Badges at the Request of the Court-Contempt Proceedings.

SITUATION UNCERTAIN.

General Expectation That Mr. Frenzel Will

Be in Charge Again To-Day. Though Judge Taylor will not decide the contempt case against President Frenzel until 9 o'clock this morning, it is the general opinion that the street railroad will to-day revert back into the hands of the company, with Mr. Frenzel in full charge. If Mr. Frenzel is found not guilty of contempt the court will practically have no option other than to grant his appeal to the general term from the decision of Monday night, and accept his appeal bond. This action will vacate the receivership until the appeal can be heard, which will probably be on Monday next. But what of the state of affairs while Mr. Frenzel has charge. The strike was declared off during the receivership, and receivership ends. President Frenzel discharged the men when they struck. Will he regard them as still discharged? Upon this subject he is silent, saying that he cannot say what he will do until he gets the road back. The employes met at an early hour this morning to mark out a line of action in view of the contingencies of to-day. The surrender of the badges as promised by President Dugan to the court yesterday was discussed and agreed to. Then came up the question of a line of action in case of Mr. Frenzel again assuming charge to-day. Speeches were made by various leaders strongly advocating a waiting policy, that is, that the men simply remain at work and await action upon the part of President Frenzel. The men, when the receivership came in, were in the attitude of awaiting a reply to their conciliatory letter, with President Frenzel's promise to exhaust the correspondence before resorting to any further hostile measures. In this attitude they have since remained, while taking employment under the receiver. The employes, while the meeting was in session, requested that their line of action be not divulged. President Frenzel as able to keep his to himself, and they do not care to give him the advantage of knowing

In this undetermined state of affairs it is hard to tell whether street cars will be running after to-day or not, or whether there will not be a repetition of the situation a week ago, with its attendant dis-

BADGES GIVEN UP.

Judge Taylor Announces that One Compilcation Is Gotten Rid Of. A Journal reporter was given the tip that Judge Taylor would render his decision in the Frenzel contempt case at 2 P. M., and at that hour he was promptly on hand, to find Superior Court room No. 1 closed as tightly as the street-car stables in the early morning of March 1, when Receiver Steele went to take charge of them. A glance through the door showed the chamber of justice was vacant, but a murmur from the Judge's private room f nished the suspicion that something was going on. At 2:15 the doors of the court-room were opened, and a dozen or more persons entered. Some moments later the Judge appeared from the ante-room, where he had been holding another consultation with President Dugan and others of the Brotherhood and John P. Frenzel. The counsel of both sides were present. The experience of the morning appeared to have sufficed all the attorneys, and the Judge took his seat and spoke his sentiments without any "perversity of counsel" intervening to prevent it. "Gentlemen," said the court, "in this case I am now going to make what is called an interlocutory order. I shall not decide the questions of contempt and the matter of appeal until to-morrow morning, at 9 o'clock, when I shall make the decision in open court and as publicly as it is possible for it to be made; and I trust that the reporters of the several newspapers will give notice that the decision will be made at that time, and give it such a place in the newspapers that everybody who is interested in the matter shall see it and may attend if they please.

"Before reading the order that I am now going to make it is proper that I should make an order granting the appeal to the general term from the order made by me, appointing a receiver in the case, I thought it not inconsistent with my position as a judge or my duty as a citizen to suggest to the parties in the case some means by which the car service might be continued without interruption, without any stoppage, because the fact of the changing of the possession of the cars and other property of the company from the hands of the receiver appointed by the court to the company, which is a requirement of the statute in cases where an appeal is made from the order appointing a receiver, I knew that there might be, unless such an arrangement could be made, some trouble, unless the employes of the receiver could be continued in the service until an adjustment was made; until matters could be adjusted and the company could secure such employes as it saw proper in case there could be no adjustment ande between it and the individuals who are now operating the cars. I mentioned that matter to the president of the company. I also stated it to at least one of the counsel for the company, and it was suggested by the president that one difficulty in the way of bringing about an accomplishment of that matter might be the fact that the receiver had distributed to the employes the badges permitting them to ride generally upon the cars; which had been a matter of question and difference between the employes and the company before the strike. I was not aware until yesterday that the receiver had made any such distribution of the badges; and while I am not prepared to say that the receiver acted improperly in the matter in view of the fact that the public had been for some eight or nine days without any car service, and were in urgent need of it-I say I am not prepared to say, in view of that fact, that the receiver acted beyond his duty, or performed a duty that would not have been authorized substantially by the court, if the court had been applied to on the subject, I stated that I would communicate with the receiver and institute such an inquiry as might possibly lead to the restoration of those badges without
